Two Valley Watersheds Are Destroyed

Lopez Canyon District Swept by Flames

Fear Devastation of Grazing Lands

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Aug. 8.—Forest fires are still raging in this vicinity and Fire Warden Reid and hundreds of fire fighters are kept constantly at work to protect the farms of the many ranchers and stock raisers whose crops and feed are endangered.

In many instances ranches have been burned completely over, since its start, a few days ago, more than 15,000 acres of land have been burned over.

The fire in Tama Jara district burned to the Cuesta grade and there it has been raging for the past few days. It has destroyed the watershed for the city of San Luis Obispo for this season.

The fire in vicinity of Gold Tree station on the mountain has been controlled after causing great damage.

The worst devastation has been started from the Lopez Canyon district, burning down the canyon and destroying the watershed for the Arroyo Grande Valley, which derives its water supply from the Lopez district.

Another big fire has started on the Parkfield-Cooling road in the Parkfield district and another above San Simón.

The fire wardens are calling up every available man to aid in battling the fires and their crews that have been working for days are being reinforced by others as they are gathered up by the wardens.

SITUATION UNCHANGED
SANTA BARBARA, Aug. 8.—Late reports from the forest fire in the region of Guadalupe, in San Luis Obispo county, indicate little change in the situation since early in the day.

The fire is being fought by a force of about 100 men, and the fire is under control, though the fire is still continuing to burn in the area.

NORA BAYES IS AGAIN DIVORCED

quoted as saying, adding that he intended to sue for divorce and reproaching Welton, who he said had been his friend.

The divorce which a referee's report recommends be granted to Arthur Gordon, from Nora Bayes will be number four with Leonore Goldberg, to use Nora's real name. Her other husbands, named in the order of their marriages, were: O. A. Gressing, a Chicago business man; Jack Norworth, once Nora's dancing partner, and Harry Clark, another actor.

NOT MUCH PUBLICITY

The Gressing wedding did not get much publicity. Like the actress' real name and the fact that she was born in Chicago in 1890, the first marriage has been forgotten, except for the circumstance that Gressing obtained the divorce.

The Norworth-Bayes alliance was a celebrated union, however. When Jack Norworth (real name John West) and the famous singer were married they were dancing partners. In February, 1911, they quarreled and the singer broke up their stage partnership but serious enough to get them into the divorce court. After a carefully guarded hearing, Circuit Court Judge Gibbons of Chicago gave Miss Bayes a decree.

Gordon (real name Gordon) was the leading man in "Ladies First" when he and Nora were married, February 23, 1919. They went to Springfield, Ill., for the ceremony to avoid publicity, but were recognized by an admirer.

It is not likely that Gordon had decided to sue for divorce.

HEART UP FOR AIR

The first of the one figure looms above the others in the Democratic party managers. This is William Randolph Hearst, who is expected to be a potential menace to future Democratic harmony because of the pronounced trend of considerable factional animosity.

Mr. Hearst is credited by Congressional sympathizers with the ambition to take over the Democratic party in the near future. It is quite certain that to succeed he will have to negotiate some seemingly insuperable obstacles.

CIVIL ENGINEER ACCUSED

Prominent San Diego Builder Exercised "Hypnotic Influence" Over Wife, Husband Says

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent (EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)

PASADENA, Aug. 8.—Charges that Joseph M. Lushbaugh, prominent civil engineer, San Diego, and for several years in charge of the construction of the $3,000,000 United States Navy plant in that city, exercised a hypnotic influence over the wife of George E. Strout of 434 North Los Robles avenue were made in Justice B. C. Strang's court today, where Mr. Lushbaugh was placed on trial for asserted disturbance of the peace.

Strout asserted that the engineer had been in his home when ordered to do so, and picked up a hammer instead. The engineer denied these assertions.

The jury, all males, was reported to be standing 4 to 4 for conviction at the end of an hour's deliberation and Justice Strang announced he would keep them in session all night if necessary. At 10:45, however, he discharged them. The last vote was 10 to 2 for conviction.

Mr. Lushbaugh declared on the stand he had come up from San Diego to refute the charges he had heard Strout had said about him. He had heard Strout had said about him. He had heard Strout had said about him. He had heard Strout had said about him.

STATE LEADS IN WATER POWER

Figures Indicate California in First Place

New York Shows Decrease in Electric Output

Increased Development Hits Oil Consumption

(REUTERS DISPATCH)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Figures made public today by the geological survey show that California leads every State in the Union in the production of electricity by water power, and that every month the amount of energy so produced is increasing in California by great strides, while New York and some other States are decreasing in their water-power production.

In February, California produced 243,360,000 kilowatt hours and in June this figure jumped to 284,215,000 kilowatt hours. For the last month, this exceeded the amount produced in New York by over 100,000,000 kilowatt hours. California and New York were the only States producing large quantities of electricity by water power. Not a pound of coal was used in developing this great amount of power in the State of California and the latter months showed a heavy reduction in the amount of fuel oil consumed as the increased production of electricity by water power was developed.

California, Idaho, Utah, Kansas, Pennsylvania and Tennessee show a decided increase in output, while New York, Wisconsin, South Carolina and North Carolina show a decrease. The total decrease, however, is considerable in balancing the increase in the first group. The output of each of the remaining States in general, for June, is remarkably close to the output for May. As May is a thirty-one-day month and June a thirty-day month, the figures are in the company of a charming, full-bearded man to whom she had been introduced on a former occasion. He was Mr. Andre Charcot, a Frenchman who had whispered to her sister in confidence, while Landru was getting on his overcoat, that her lover had a villa at Gambais in the country.

How the Famous French Murderer of Women Fell into the Hands of the Police

Only a few days after the heartless murder of Mme. Marchadier, the son of Mme. Buisson fell ill at Bayonne in the south of France. The lady's father was dead, and his mother was, as he believed, somewhere in Paris. His aunt, Mme. Lacoste, a domestic servant, thought her sister should know of the lady's illness. The last time she had seen her sister was in a cafe, in the company of a charming, full-bearded man to whom she had been introduced on a former occasion. He was Mr. Andre Charcot, a Frenchman who had whispered to her sister in confidence, while Landru was getting on his overcoat, that her lover had a villa at Gambais in the country.

STATE LEADS IN WATER POWER

Figures Indicate California in First Place

New York Shows Decrease in Electric Output

Increased Development Hits Oil Consumption

(REUTERS DISPATCH)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Figures made public today by the geological survey show that California leads every State in the Union in the production of electricity by water power, and that every month the amount of energy so produced is increasing in California by great strides, while New York and some other States are decreasing in their water-power production.

In February, California produced 243,360,000 kilowatt hours and in June this figure jumped to 284,215,000 kilowatt hours. For the last month, this exceeded the amount produced in New York by over 100,000,000 kilowatt hours. California and New York were the only States producing large quantities of electricity by water power. Not a pound of coal was used in developing this great amount of power in the State of California and the latter months showed a heavy reduction in the amount of fuel oil consumed as the increased production of electricity by water power was developed.

Terrible Tigers Trample Over Lowly Portland Ducks

BEAVERS EASY FOR JAKIE MAY

Diminutive Bengal Hurler Deals Great Ball

Star Pitcher Also Poles Out a Circuit Clout

Pete Schneider Registers Another Homer

PORTLAND (Or.) Aug. 8.—Jakie May wasn't satisfied with the Beavers pitching lesson today and beating them, 6 to 2. On top of that, he scored the first two runs for the Tigers in the fifth with a homer that cleared the left-field fence.

A little later he chaperoned another tally by a squeeze bunt. In addition to all that, he was hopping hither and yon all afternoon, with every hop robbing one of the home boys of a hit by circus fielding. The honorable Jakie was almost the whole show by himself.

Jakie almost broke Rube Walberg's honest heart with his homer. Walberg had been pitching prodigiously up to the fatal instant Jakie faced him. He had permitted only one hit in five innings, it being a scrappy hit whiffed five and with a one-run lead to cheer him, appeared full master of the situation.

RUBE WALKERS But with Zelder and French easy outs, Rube wavered a trifle, and walked Truck Hannah. Mr. May was next at bat. He took one swing and watched a bad one prior to lashing out from his toes and nailing the third pitch. In great bitterness the customers watched it clear bleachers and all, by about a fifty-foot margin, and sink from view.

Built with two out, Chadbourne got Walberg, Weller and Jimmy Foote all bunched up trying to field his little hopper, with the result that when Walberg did grab it, there was nobody on first to throw at, whereupon Pete Schneider hit the first ball for another homer that went over the fence in the identical spot as Jakie's, only it wasn't so high or so long.

Four runs after two were out, on a walk and three base hit, is making the punches count.

IT'S UP TO JOE PATRICK

William Wrigley, Jr., has given Joe Patrick carte blanche in disposing of Nick Dumovich.

Cincinnati has offered $25,000 and four players for Dumovich, the four players to be delivered immediately and Dumovich not to report until next season. Naturally Wrigley wanted Dumovich for the Chicago Cubs later, but as the Cubs can spare no players who would benefit the Angels at this time, he has left Patrick free to make the deal with Cincinnati should it be deemed wise.

If four players who will actually benefit the Los Angeles club can be obtained the deal probably will be made.

an injured finger after getting two strikes on Ping Bodie. Ralph Coleman, the collegian, replaced Rube and finished the job on the alleged fence buster with a third strike. Esack yanked Ping immediately, and sent in Higley.

In the eighth the Tigers scored another run when Hughie High walked with one down, and tallied on Lockie's triple, after Greenett had messaged it considerably as it bounced off the fence. Walberg retired the side with a mazy double play on Zelder's pop fly.

Vic Aldridge Twirls Bruins to Dodger Win

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—After Kelly's second home run had tied the score in the ninth, the Giants lost to Cincinnati today in the tenth inning, 7 to 3. With the bases full and none out in the tenth, the Reds scored two runs on Bancroft's wild throw. Two more runs followed on Rixey's sacrifice fly and Burns's double.

Not accounted for New York's third tally with a circuit drive. Both of Kelly's homers were terrific clouts, the first going high into the right-field bleachers in the seventh, and the second clearing the fence behind the left-field bleachers, the first time it has been done this year.

Manager McGraw was put off the field in the sixth inning by Umpire Higley's disputing a decision. The score:

PLAYERS MUST BE SWIMMERS

NEWMAN (Ill.) Aug. 8.—Ball players in the "Kerosene circuit" must be swimmers in addition to other athletic accomplishments. In the game today between Champion and Newman, a Champion player hit the old apple a mighty wallop and it soared out of the lot into the river. Outfielder Dennis was right on its tail, however, plunged into the river and salvaged the ball which he relayed to third in time to nip the runner, who had figured he was down for an easy home run.

Maintaining GMC trucks is more economical and more satisfactory for two reasons. GMC trucks have been designed to cut down "lay-up" time and to reduce actual replacement expense. Their exclusive features of construction all aid materially in accomplishing such service.

Moreover, the direct factory branch in your locality maintains a large and adequate supply of maintenance parts, as well as an expert service station.

Only Race Decided in Straight Heats

John Henry Close Winner Over Tramp Sage

ST. CINCINNATI, Aug. 8.—Dr. T. L. Cooper, of Dayton, O., won the $1000 prize of the 2:04 class "chase" race at North Randall. It was the only race of the day to be decided in straight heats.

Peter Henley was driven by Harry Stokes and was coupled with Charley Sweet, which won the 2:04 race for 2:08 class at the July meeting. Today Charley Sweet finished second in the second heat.

The first race resulted in a dead heat, each of which finished close finishes except the third. That was won by John Henry, who was driven by Harry Stokes. Only four of the six scheduled races were decided today. It was expected to put the 2:14 trot and the three-year-old trot over until tomorrow.

CHILDLESS HOMES MADE HAPPY

Presence of Little Ones a Great Blessing

Four Interesting Letters

Cortland, N.Y.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I was weak and wanted to become strong and have a child. My husband read about it in the 'Cortland Standard' and thought it might help me. It certainly did for I now have a lovely boy fifteen months old who weighs forty pounds. I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to my friends and you can certainly use my testimonial in your little books and in the newspapers, as it might help to make some other childless homes happy by the presence of little ones as it has done mine."—Mrs. CLAUDE P. CAMPBELL, 10 Salisbury St., Cortland, N.Y.

Brooklyn, N.Y.—"I am certainly very thankful to you for your Vegetable Compound. I was married three years and did not have a child. My husband had often heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and he made me take it and I became the mother of the healthiest little boy I know. When my friends tell me their bad feelings the first thing I say is, 'Take the Vegetable Compound.' I am willing for you to use these facts as testimonial."—Mrs. ANTONIETTE MARANO, 113 Nostrand Ave., Brooklyn, N.Y.

St. Louis, Mo.—"I want to tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me seven years ago. I was run down and had a weakness such as women often have. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and after being married sixteen years became the mother of a sweet little girl. I now have four lovely children—three fine boys and the little girl six years old. I had longed for children all the while and wept many a day and envied every woman with a child. I was 36 years old when my first baby was born. I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to any woman who is ailing with female weakness."—Mrs. J. NAUMANN, 1817 Benton St., St. Louis, Mo.

Was Weak and Run Down
St. Louis, Mo.—"My mother took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when I was a girl, and when I was troubled with cramps I took it, and later when I married I again took it to make me strong as the doctor said I was weak and run down and could not have children. I took it and got along fine and now I have three girls. So you know why I keep the Compound in the house. I am a well woman and do my work and sewing too."—Mrs. JULIUS HARTMAN, 2501 W. Dodder Street, St. Louis, Mo.

OIL FIELDS MEN RALLY TO MOORE

Veteran Driller Asserts
Well Workers Distrust
Johnson's Policies

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 8.—No bunch of workers in the world is more dependent on prosperity in general than our oil-well fellows—and that's one of the reasons why most of us are going to vote for Charles C. Moore when it comes to choosing a Republican candidate for the United States Senate.

"Bill" Quinn, veteran driller for the Standard Oil Company, and known in every petroleum field from Alaska to Columbia, knocked off work long enough today to express a few political philosophies.

"If the country isn't prosperous, the well drillers are out of luck," continued "Bill." "Black times mean that fewer automobiles are bought, and naturally less gasoline is used. In fact, unless money is being spent in all lines of industry the oil-well worker has nothing to do till tomorrow, for there's no demand for new oil wells."

"Most of us believe that the Republican party keeps the country prosperous. We believe that it has the right ideas on tariff protection. We believe that President Harding and his aides are all to the good. We have money in our pockets and lots of work ahead of us—and we want things to stay that way."

"Johnson hasn't acted like a man who realizes these things. He isn't a good party man. He isn't safe, for it is always a case of 'Too much Johnson' in anything he tackles."

LONG BEACH FOLK
RALLY TO MOORE

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
LONG BEACH, Aug. 8.—A public headquarters for the Moore-for-Senate Club of Long Beach was opened today at 139 East First street. A. C. Malone is president of his time from now until the primary election on August 29, in furthering the interests of Mr. Moore in this city.

Mrs. Florence Blood has been placed in charge of the headquarters of the club, which will be kept open at all times.

Literature of the campaign for Moore is kept constantly on hand at the headquarters, and active workers are being selected to cover the whole community.

Long Beach has developed a large number of Moore supporters who formerly voted and worked for Johnson, and the list of membership in the club is constantly

NOT WISELY
 Councilman Criswell is once more experiencing the embarrassing consequences of using his helmet as a megaphone.

SKIN GAMES
 One eastern firm is said to have mounted over 5000 skins in a single season. It looks as if they might be able to add the pelts of Breckinridge Long to the collection, but Hiram Johnson so far refuses to surrender his.

MILES OF DANCING
 The dancing man says that the average dancing fapper, who spends a night in tripping communion with a jazz band, will trot twelve miles. If she were invited to walk two miles she would faint with horror, but when the trombones blare she is out for the long-distance record.

HAIR OF SILENCE
 In spite of the fact that he died before the polls opened, Congressman Padgett was renominated by his constituents of the Seventh Tennessee District. Some of the mountaineers may not hear of his death in time for the general election. But, at that, a tombstone might not make such a bad representative. It doesn't make long speeches.

NAMING THE WOMAN
 Democrats in the Eighth Missouri District have nominated a woman for Congress. Aside from being a Democrat she is an ardent prohibitionist and a college president. The district is now represented by a Republican and the honor thus conferred upon the lady may be an empty one. The way the Missouri Democrats have been voting this year has not been overly encouraging to prohibitionists.

PARIS AND PAJAMAS
 The Parisians have never been able to accept pajamas with cordiality. The historic nightshirt still holds the place of honor in the popular mind. The true Parisian might lounge at ease in his nightgown, where he would blush like a tomato at being caught in a set of pajamas. They know almost nothing of pajama parties in France. Left to himself the Parisian would never know that there was such a thing. The poor devils in Paris have lots to learn. They only think they are naughty.

SURE THING
 An educational authority says that the children of the public schools who read the newspapers are better advanced than the rest in spelling, geography and history. Of course. The daily paper is the little schoolmaster in these branches and the child who can read at all will unconsciously absorb some of the information and follow naturally in the same paths. The press is not only an aid and stimulant to education, but in the case of a sweet and intelligent publication like The Times it is an education itself.

INTERNATIONAL JAGS
 According to research on the part of the International Temperance Bureau foreign jags are much more refined than the native or home-brewed sort. When an American gets drunk he is apt to make a thorough job of it, while a Frenchman or an Italian will still be courteous and competent. When a robust American gets hit up he is likely to burn a hole in the scenery, while the average foreigner will only exude a genial warmth. That is one of the thirty-seven reasons why we have the Eighteenth Amendment.

HAS NO FRIENDS
 Further warrant for harsh criticism of our jury system. It is incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial. After four trials and the arraignment of two defendants the Kennedy murder is still unavenged. American court practice is still unimproved. It is hard to make them do it—especially in a case in which public interest is aroused. It would be better if folks would curb their passions and quit murdering. Then there wouldn't be so many "fuds" in the temple of justice. Chief Justice Taft went to Europe to find out how it is that justice is more active and certain in England than in this country. Although we are nearly 150 years old, we have an awful lot to learn. One of the things is how to penalize our murdering. What are we going to do about it?

ARE ISSUES DEAD?
 Senator Johnson says the four-power pact as an issue is dead. He may think so, but it isn't. The position he takes is that, although he fought it, it is dead. It has been approved. It is no more an issue. But the treaty provides a program and policy calling for national support. There must be friends instead of foes on the firing line in order that the essential backing be provided. The Ten Commandments became the law of Israel. Senator Johnson would have probably fought heartily against their acceptance at the time. On their acceptance he might have explained that they had ceased to be an issue. But there still remained the little matter of their observance. If we are making treaties and world agreements and want their friends and not their opponents behind them. It seems more reasonable.

LESSONS OF THE PRIMARIES
 That the national political situation is complicated will hardly admit of serious argument.
 Following the usual custom, in the year following the induction of a new national administration, a variety of matters divides the attention of the people. The country is faced with issues upon which the people are divided, growing out of the World War, which is an element no other national administration has been called to face. Possibly no President in the history of the country has been placed in such a difficult position as Warren G. Harding. Never before have there been so many dominant issues affecting the future policy of the nation upon which the Chief Executive has been called to pass judgment and make a part of his national policy. That President Harding has had a man's job on his hands his bitterest enemies will not deny.

Yet in all the welter of debate, acrimonious and otherwise, there has not appeared any serious challenging of the record he has made.
 The criticism has had wholly to do with Congress, where the Republican party has an overwhelming majority. There has been the point of attack and there has been the point of defense, but in various forms, it appeared among the voters. That President Harding has exerted his utmost to induce his party associates to conform, not only to the settled policy of his administration, but to the plain letter and spirit of the national platform upon which they and he were elected, the daily dispatches from Washington indicate. In spite of bitter opposition, he is bringing them around to his point of view. This is one of the happy auguries of the time.

What does the record show so far? Republican primary elections have been held in the States of Indiana, Pennsylvania, Iowa, North Dakota and Nebraska. In every instance openly announced friends and advocates of the administration have been nominated. Leaders have been shifted in some instances, but the wagon is still on the Harding road.

In Indiana Albert J. Beveridge defeated Senator Harry New for renomination. Without detailing how the latter neglected his political opportunities in the Hoosier State it is enough to say that, while New has been retired, he is to give place to one of the strongest advocates of the Harding administration in that State. Since his nomination, on a dozen stumps, Albert J. Beveridge has pledged his unflinching fealty to the fortunes of Warren G. Harding.
 The fight in Pennsylvania was a purely State affair. Gifford Pinchot defeated City-Gen. Alter for the gubernatorial nomination on issues that involved the management of affairs at Harrisburg alone. Pinchot has for years been among the leading progressives of the nation and his success has led the Democratic press to shout with acclamation that the scepter of power was about to depart from the political Israel. But what about Pinchot? How does he stand with President Harding? He had hardly been nominated until he went to Washington and pledged his support to the President. He has repeated his position a score of times since.

In Iowa, Brookheart, the Senatorial nominee, recognized in the Hawkeye State as among the leaders of what are known as the Progressive wing of the Republican party, has been endorsed by the Republican State Convention, coupled with a resolution backing the Harding administration, to which Brookheart has given his warm adherence.
 In North Dakota, Porter J. McCumber's defeat by Ex-Gov. Lynn J. Frazier was brought about by two factors that emphasize the old political aphorism that it is hard for even a politician to ride two horses at one time. McCumber played the game of politics too fine and fell between the stools. He backed the soldier bonus bill because he thought it would get him votes, and he dallied with the Nonpartisans too long to suit his old friends. He tried to catch the coon a-comin' or a-gwine, with the usual result. But his successful opponent, the interview, announces that he will back the Harding administration in its fight to carry out Republican policies. So, while there has been a change of riders, there has been no change in the destination in North Dakota.

And so the record runs through all the story of the recent Republican primaries. Candidates that were supposed to be close to President Harding (although the President, unlike his predecessor, wrote no letters denouncing anybody), have been set aside, but the winners say that they are Republicans and will stand behind the President.
 The tariff is a thorn in the side of the country as it has been ever since the Republican party declared for the protection of American industries. The people of this country have put their seal of approval on this policy in every campaign for more than a half century and it is today one of the vexed questions before Congress. Efforts have been made to take the tariff out of politics, but so far unsuccessfully, and the Republican Congress is spending a hot summer back in Washington trying to iron out the divergent issues in a new tariff law, in which the policy of protection shall dominate. President Harding is a protectionist, and every Senatorial candidate so far successful in the primaries has declared his adherence to the doctrine. So there is to be no falling away of strength of the protection idea, even if there has been a change in some instances in the personnel of the body whose duty it is to build a tariff law. That leaves the foundation stone of the Republican party intact.

The political world in the United States is now running around in a circle. There is a difference in the viewpoint on many public questions, but the people have faith in President Harding. They believe he will stand the test that is coming to him as it comes to every President; the test of his fiber and his capacity for leadership and his competence to give directions. No man nominated in any of the primaries of the Republican party so far held could have succeeded if he had made opposition to President Harding a plank in his platform. The voters have taken them at their word and express a willingness, in some instances, to give a new man a chance, but where this favor has been granted the recipients of the party honor have lost no time in declaring that they approved the attitude and position of President Harding.

He who sits in the exalted post of President of the United States is as one set apart. He must walk the Via Sacra alone. He must shoulder for the time rests the burdens borne only by those who are the children of destiny. From Washington to Harding many men have walked in the way of majesty and power. Let us hope that he who at the present presses toward the goal of the nation's destiny may have the strength and unfaltering purpose to persevere, in spite of the rigors of the way, to the glorious achievements accomplished by those who have preceded him. Meanwhile, in spite of the tumult of the captains and the shouting of the Democratic hosts, only Harding men have been placed on guard and, like St. Paul at the Three Taverns, let us thank God and take courage.

THE MOVIE CROWDS
 Business has been dull with the movies in some sections of the country. In numbers of eastern towns it has been found that it is only on Saturdays and Sundays that the theaters pay. But for the crowds on these two days it would be impossible to pay for the music. Some of them, in fact, are cutting out the orchestras. With an intelligent piano-player the orchestra may be dispensed with without any objection on the part of the patrons. Here the theaters do fairly well through the week, but it must be admitted that the Saturday and Sunday business is what furnishes the profit.

HARD OF HEARING
 One of the heads of the packing combination says that hams have fallen more than 20 per cent in price in the last thirty days. Will he please write this down on a piece of paper so that we can hand it to the butcher. He hasn't heard of it yet.

THE CREED OF GANDHI

BY ALMA WHITAKER

That strong mysterious personality which we know as Mahatma Gandhi, the Indian leader who in his eloquent passivity is so disturbing to British rule in India, and who even now languishes in prison for his creed, is a confirmed foe of modern civilization. And this famous creed of his, which is so politically embarrassing, is really none other than that the clock may be turned back a thousand years.
 He despises railroads, telegraphs, modern machinery of all kinds, anything and everything that we regard as triumphs of civilization. The world's salvation, he is convinced, rests in a complete return to the "simple life," a state repudiating a scrapping of all those things that we call progress.
 He calls his creed "Swadeshi," which he defines as "that spirit in us which restricts us to the use and service of our own immediate surroundings, to the exclusion of the more remote"—each little community sufficient unto itself, the seclusion and exclusion that obtained before our much vaunted "means of communication" were invented to harness us with our neighbors' woes.
 So it will be seen that Gandhi has set himself a colossal task. He isn't just fighting a political fight, but a comprehensive fight against all civilization, the abolition of all progress, boring deep down in modern human instincts, human ambition, human "smartness."

Gandhi says: "There was true wisdom in the sages of old who so regulated society as to limit the material condition of the people."
 But was it? That didn't last. The old world insists upon keeping moving, forward and backward, the swing of the pendulum. It is easy to suppose, in the glamor of the past, that people were more spiritual then, that the simple life and primitive conditions are more welcome and worthy in the sight of God. Even mamma and papa suffer from the delusion that their day was more righteous than ours. Each generation shudders at the inventions and contraptions of the succeeding one.

Gandhi wants us to return to the piety of 5000 years ago and all the primitive conditions that went with it. People, he says, live longer under those conditions and in peace.
 But, of course, they don't do anything of the kind. When there were only tribes there were incessant tribal wars. When there were nations there were civil wars and international wars. Whether it be bow and arrow or big Bertha, stone club or air bombs, the result seems to have been very much the same.

I have traveled uncouthly in South Africa among many primitive tribes—and they weren't peaceful, they weren't content, they weren't particularly healthy and each and every one of them had a pet enemy. I don't think our civilization specially improves them, but they always took to it the ducks to water, via the indirect missionary and the railroad. But their own particular brands of religion did not seem to work any better than ours. They worried just as much about getting their few primitive needs, set just as much store by them, and got all the same awfully out of their cow or a bigger but that we do out of a new motor car or a stylish mansion. And as for living longer, why we have more centenarians in Los Angeles than we met in all our journeys among those primitive simple-lifers. They lost just as many babies and have their full quota of stomach aches and fevers. In fact, the chief difference between them and us was that life was distinctly dull and they had small chance of developing the wit the Lord had given them. Of course a great many of us fail to develop our wit, too, but at least we have the chance.

It is rather pathetic, this creed of Gandhi, through which he hopes to accomplish so much for the world, and by which he necessarily holds the world in such contempt. He even despises doctors, scorn learning, derides mental as well as material progress. Yet without his own learning he cannot have arrived at the philosophical tenets of his own ancient creed. It has taken civilization and the advantages of modern learning to arrive at the conclusion that they are very bad for the rest of the people. He deplores the interest in remote conditions—but his own interest and endeavor is world-wide. He wants to save Europe and America as well as all India. He is not at all content to merely redeem his immediate neighbors or serve only his own little community. Had he been faithfully reared in his own creed, he would never have known we needed saving.

And when and if he redeems us according to his lights, banishes civilization from the face of the earth—we shall break his heart.

VACATION TIME

BY JENNIE VAN ALLEN

"My wife has gone on her annual vacation."
 "God knows I don't grudge her a respite from the deadly monotony of married life, for in all the world there is nothing so nerve-racking as wife and motherhood. How women ever stand up under the ever-recurring demands of my prayers that I won't be reincarnated a woman, but if that is my Karma, I'll certainly be a splinter, for having been a man, I'd never be patient with a husband or children."

"She's going home to her mother and I know she'll jump further than any frog in the pond when she sets foot in the little village where she used to be the prettiest girl. She'll have more beaux than ever—they'll swarm around her as if she was a hive of honey. She's in for a good time and I don't want her handicapped by the fact that she owes anything to me."

"So the night before she went away, I gave her a spool wound with a silver thread all spangled with gold tinsel. It was a pretty bauble and yard after yard I unwound the shining strands until it lay all aglitter in her lap."

"This is my solemn vow to you and I want you to understand it from the spool every night and say: 'My husband told me to go almost to the end of my rope and then I must wind it again for I'd be perfectly safe as long as I kept the end of my rope in my own hand. But woe to me if I ever let go.'"

"You'll do a lot of foolish things while you're having a good time on your vacation in your old home town—silly things you used to do when you were a girl that are unbecoming to a married woman."

"And while you're on your vacation, I, too, am going to have a good time. I'm going to be just as free as in my bachelor days. I'm going to take the girls out to ride and out to dinner, but I'm going to keep the rope in my own hands. I'm not going to do anything for which I will be sorry or ashamed when I'm going to have a jolly good time and I'm not going to confess any more than I want a confession from you."

"It'll be a game of trust each other. Whenever you've gone on a vacation I've suffered terribly at the thought of your innocent flirtations with the boys you used to know. I've been crazed at the thought that they held your hands and made a king from your sweet moan. I trusted you absolutely, but these thoughts were like red-hot pinchers gripping my heart-strings."

"And then I was in a panic, for fear you'd hear of my larks with the girls you knew. They are all nice girls, but they instinctively shied at the idea of going out with a married man when his wife was away. And there's no fun in going to ride or to the theater with a silly little tag-along. But when our friends know the coast is clear for you and for me, they'll be ready for a frolic among the mountains and the sea. Now we have a perfect understanding and we'll both go almost to the end of our rope. Then we'll wind our spool and begin again."

"But do you know she wasn't a bit pliant with my scheme. As far as she was concerned, it wasn't a game that worked both ways. She'd rather be tormented by her fears, than to absolutely know I was out on a lark every night with girls we both admire and respect."

"She was determined to stay at home and I had to almost throw her head foremost onto the train aboard. As for me, my spool is tightly wound and I don't know when I'll begin to unwind. And she has just telegraphed she'll be home next week, and that her spool is just as it was when my clumsy fingers wound the gold and silver thread the night before she went away on her vacation."

 Councilman Criswell is once more experiencing the embarrassing consequences of using his helmet as a megaphone.

SKIN GAMES
 One eastern firm is said to have mounted over 5000 skins in a single season. It looks as if they might be able to add the belt of Breckenridge Long to the collection, but Hiram Johnson so far refuses to surrender his.

MILES OF DANCING
 The mathematician says that the average dancing flapper, who spends a night in tripping communion with a jazz band, will trot twelve miles. If she were invited to walk two miles she would faint with horror, but when the trombones blare she is out for the long-distance record.

HAIR OF SILENCE
 In spite of the fact that he died before the polls opened, Congressman Padgett was renominated by his constituents of the Seventh Tennessee District. Some of the mountaineers may not hear of his death in time for the general election. But, at that, a tombstone might not make such a bad representative. It doesn't make long speeches.

NAMING THE WOMAN
 Democrats in the Eighth Missouri District have nominated a woman for Congress. Aside from being a Democrat she is an ardent prohibitionist and a college president. The district is now represented by a Republican and the honor thus conferred upon the lady may be an empty one. The way the Missouri Democrats have been voting this year has not been over-encouraging to prohibitionists.

PARIS AND PAMJAS
 The Parisians have never been able to accept pajamas with cordiality. The historic nightshirt still holds the place of honor in the popular mind. The true Parisian might lounge at ease in his nightgown, where he would blush like a tomato at being caught in a set of pajamas. They know almost nothing of pajama parties in France. Left to himself the Parisian would never know that there was such a thing. The poor devil in Paris has lots to learn. They only think they are naughty.

SURE THING
 An educational authority says that the children of the public schools who read the newspapers are better advanced than the rest in spelling, geography and history. Of course. The daily paper is the little schoolmaster in these branches and the child who can read at all will unconsciously absorb some of the information and follow naturally in the same paths. The press is not only an aid and stimulant to education, but in the case of a sweet and intelligent publication like The Times it is an education itself.

INTERNATIONAL JAGS
 According to research on the part of the International Temperance Bureau foreign jags are much more refined than the native or home-brewed ones. When an American gets drunk he is apt to make a thorough job of it, while a Frenchman or an Italian will still be courteous and competent. When a robust American gets hit up he is likely to burn a hole in the scenery, while the average foreigner will only exude a genial warmth. That is one of the thirty-seven reasons why we have the Eighteenth Amendment.

HAS NO FRIENDS
 Further warrent for harsh criticism of our jury system. It is incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial. After four trials and the arraignment of two defendants the Kennedy murder is still unavenged. American court practice and the jury system do not harmonize. It is hard to make them fit—especially in a case in which public interest is aroused. It would be better if folks would curb their passions and quit murdering. Then there wouldn't be so many "duds" in the temple of justice. Chief Justice Taft went to Europe to find out how it is that justice is more active and certain in England than in this country. Although we are nearly 150 years old, we have an awful lot to learn. One of the things is how to penalize our murdering. What are we going to do about it?

ARE ISSUES DEAD?
 Senator Johnson says the four-power pact as an issue is dead. He may think so, but it isn't. The position he takes is that, although he fought the treaty to the bitter end, it was finally approved. Having been approved, it is no more an issue. But the treaty provides a program and policy calling for national support. There must be friends instead of foes on the firing line in order that the essential backing be provided. The Ten Commandments became the law of Israel. Senator Johnson would have probably fought heartily against their acceptance at the time. On their acceptance he might have explained that they had ceased to be an issue. But there still remained the little matter of their observance. If we are making treaties and world agreements we want their friends and not their opponents behind them. It seems more reasonable.

LESSONS OF THE PRIMARIES
 That the national political situation is complicated will hardly admit of serious argument.

Following the usual custom, in the year following the induction of a new national administration, a variety of matters divides the attention of the people. The country is faced with issues upon which the people are divided, growing out of the World War, which is an element no other national administration has been called to face. Possibly no President in the history of the country has been placed in such a difficult position as Warren G. Harding. Never before have there been so many dominant issues affecting the future policy of the nation upon which the Chief Executive has been called to pass judgment and make a part of his national policy. That President Harding has had a man's job on his hands his bitterest enemies will not deny.

Yet in all the welter of debate, acrimonious and otherwise, there has not appeared any serious challenging of the record he has made.

The criticism has had wholly to do with Congress, where the Republican party has an overwhelming majority. There has been the point of attack and there has been the point of defense, but in various forms, appeared among the voters. That President Harding has exerted his utmost to induce his party associates to conform, not only to the settled policy of his administration, but to the plain letter and spirit of the national platform upon which they and he were elected, the daily dispatches from Washington indicate. In spite of bitter opposition, he is bringing them around to his point of view. This is one of the happy auguries of the time.

What does the record show so far? Republican primary elections have been held in the States of Indiana, Pennsylvania, Iowa, North Dakota and Nebraska. In every instance openly announced friends and advocates of the administration have been nominated. Leaders have been shifted in some instances, but the wagon is still on the Harding road.

In Indiana Albert J. Beveridge defeated Senator Harry New for renomination. Without detailing how the latter neglected his political opportunities in the Hoosier State it is enough to say that, while New has been retired, he is to give place to one of the strongest advocates of the Harding administration in that State. Since his nomination, on a dozen stumps, Albert J. Beveridge has pledged his unflinching fealty to the fortunes of Warren G. Harding.

The fight in Pennsylvania was a purely State affair. Gifford Pinchot defeated Atty-Gen. Alter for the gubernatorial nomination on issues that involved the management of affairs at Harrisburg alone. Pinchot has for years been among the leading Progressives of the nation and his success has led the Democratic press to shout with acclamation that the scepter of power was about to depart from the political Israel. But what about Pinchot? How does he stand with President Harding? He had hardly been nominated until he went to Washington and pledged his support to the President. He has repeated his position a score of times since.

In Iowa, Brookheart, the Senatorial nominee, recognized in the Hawkeye State as among the leaders of what are known as the Progressive wing of the Republican party, has been endorsed by the Republican State Convention, coupled with a resolution backing the Harding administration, to which Brookheart has given his warm adherence.

In North Dakota, Porter J. McCumber's defeat by Ex-Gov. Lynn J. Frazier was brought about by two factors that emphasize the old political aphorism that it is hard for even a politician to ride two horses at one time. McCumber played the game of politics too fine and fell between the stools. He backed the soldier bonus bill because he thought it would get him votes, and he dallied with the Nonpartisan too long to suit his old friends. He tried to catch the coon a-comin' or a-gwine, with the usual result. But his successful opponent, in an interview, announces that he will back the Harding administration in its fight to carry out Republican policies. So, while there has been a change of riders, there has been no change in the destination in North Dakota.

And so the record runs through all the story of the recent Republican primaries. Candidates that were supposed to be close to President Harding (although the President, unlike his predecessor, wrote no letters denouncing anybody), have been set aside, but the winners say that they are Republicans and will stand behind the President.

The tariff is a thorn in the side of the country as it has been ever since the Republican party declared for the protection of American industries. The people of this country have put their seal of approval on this policy in every campaign for more than a half century and it is today one of the vexed questions before Congress. Efforts have been made to take the tariff out of politics, but so far unsuccessfully, and the Republican Congress is spending a hot summer back in Washington trying to iron out the divergent issues in a new tariff law, in which the policy of protection shall dominate. President Harding is a protectionist, and every Senatorial candidate so far successful in the primaries has declared his adherence to the doctrine. So there is to be no falling away of strength of the protection idea, even if there has been a change in some instances in the personnel of the body whose duty it is to build a tariff law. That leaves the foundation stone of the Republican party intact.

The political world in the United States is now running around in a circle. There is a difference in the viewpoint on many public questions, but the people have faith in President Harding. They believe he will stand the test that is coming to him as it comes to every President; the test of his fiber and his capacity for leadership and his competence to give directions. No man nominated in any of the primaries of the Republican party so far held could have succeeded if he had made opposition to President Harding a plank in his platform. The voters have taken them, at some instances, to give a new man a chance, but where this favor has been granted the recipients of the party honor have lost no time in declaring that they approved the attitude and position of President Harding.

He who sits in the exalted post of President of the United States is as one set apart. He must walk the Via Sacra alone. Upon his shoulders for the time rests the burdens borne only by those who are the children of destiny. From Washington to Harding many men have walked in the way of majesty and power. Let us hope that he who at the present presses toward the goal of the nation's destiny may have the strength and unfaltering purpose to persevere, in spite of the rigors of the way, to the glorious achievements accomplished by those who have preceded him. Meanwhile, in spite of the tumult of the captains and the shouting of the Democratic hosts, only Harding men have been placed on guard and, like St. Paul at the Three Taverns, let us thank God and take courage.

THE MOVIE CROWDS
 Business has been dull with the movies in some sections of the country. In numbers of eastern towns it has been found that it is only on Saturdays and Sundays that the theaters pay. But for the crowds on these two days it would be impossible to pay for the music. Some of them, in fact, are cutting out the orchestra. With an intelligent piano-player the orchestra may be dispensed with without any objection on the part of the patrons. Here the theaters do fairly well through the week, but it must be admitted that the Saturday and Sunday business is what furnishes the profit.

THE CREED OF GANDHI

BY ALMA WHITAKER

That strong mysterious personality we know as Mahatma Gandhi, the Indian leader who in his eloquent passivity is so disturbing to British rule in India, and who even now languishes in prison for his creed, is a confirmed foe of modern civilization. And this famous creed of his, which is so politically embarrassing, is really none other than that the clock may be turned back a thousand years.

He despises railroads, telegraphs, modern machinery of all kinds, anything and everything that we regard as triumphs of civilization. The world's salvation, he is convinced, rests in a complete return to the "simple life," a stern repudiation, a scrapping of all those things that we call progress.

He calls his creed "Swadeeshi," which he defines as "that spirit in us which restricts us to the use and service of our own immediate surroundings, to the exclusion of the more remote, each little community sufficient unto itself, the seclusion and exclusion that obtained before our much vaunted means of communication were invented to harass us with our neighbors' woes."

So it will be seen that Gandhi has set himself a colossal task. He isn't just fighting a political fight, but a comprehensive fight against all civilization, the abolition of all progress, boring deep down in modern human instincts, human ambition, human "smartness."

Gandhi says: "There was true wisdom in the sages of old who so regulated society as to limit the material condition of the people."

But was it? That didn't last, either. The old world insists upon keeping moving forward and backward, the swing of the pendulum. It is easy to suppose, in the glamor of the past, that people were more spiritual then, that the simple life and primitive conditions are more welcome and worthy in the sight of God. Even mamma and papa suffer from the delusion that their day was more righteous than ours. Each generation shudders at the inventions and contraptions of the succeeding one.

Gandhi wants us to return to the pious of 5000 years ago and all the primitive conditions that went with it. People, he says, live longer under those conditions and in peace.

But, of course, they don't do anything of the kind. When there were only tribes there were incessant tribal wars. When there were nations there were civil wars and international wars. Whether it be bow and arrow or Big Bertha, stone club or air bomb, the result seems to have been very much the same.

He has traveled upcountry in South Africa among many primitive tribes—and they weren't peaceful, they weren't content, they weren't particularly healthy and such and every one of them had a pet enemy. I don't think our civilization specially improves them, but they always took to it like ducks to water, via the intrepid missionary and the railroad.

But their own particular brands of religion did not seem to work any better than ours. They worried just as much about getting their few primitive gods, set just as much by them, and got as all the same swank out of an extra cow or a bigger hut that we do out of a new motor car or a stylish mansion. And as for living longer, why we have more centenarians in Los Angeles than we have in all our journeying among these primitive simple-lifers.

They lost just as many babies and have their full quota of stomach aches and fevers. In fact, the chief difference between them and us was that life was distinctly dull and they had small chance of developing the wits the Lord had given them. Of course a great many of us fail to develop our wits, too, but at least we have the chance.

It is rather pathetic, this creed of Gandhi, through which he hopes to accomplish so much for the world, and by which he necessarily holds the world in such contempt. He even despises doctors, scorning learning, deriding material as well as material progress. Yet without his own learning he could never have arrived at the philosophical tenets of his own creed. ## Constipation Can Be Blamed For Diabetes and Bright's Disease!

And, constipation is responsible for most cases of rheumatism, hardening of the arteries, brain fog, sluggishness, headaches and many other organic disturbances! Constipation hinders old age; in fact, authorities tell you THAT 90% OF ALL HUMAN ILLNESSES IS DIRECTLY TRACEABLE TO CONSTIPATION!

With knowledge like that can you stand by and see yourself slipping physically; see your loved ones fall, in the prey of a preventable condition? Do not minimize the danger of constipation because you are only "slightly" troubled.

Inactivity of the eliminative passages creates toxic conditions which poison the intestinal walls, poison the blood and affecting the organs. BRAN—Kellogg's Bran, cooked and branched—is nature's own positive and permanent relief from constipation. It is the most wonderful corrective food known. Bran is not a "remedy," but a "roughage" that through its mineral salts and ability to absorb water—giving bulk and moisture—assists in perfect elimination. We guarantee that if Kellogg's Bran is eaten regularly—at least two tablespoonfuls daily; in chronic cases with every meal—that the sufferer will be relieved permanently! Bran is wonderful for children, for the aged, for every one!

Kellogg's Bran is delicious, its nut-like flavor greatly adding to the enjoyment of eating cereals over which it has been sprinkled. Kellogg's Bran makes the tastiest of bakery bakes, such as gobs, raisin bread, muffins, macaroons, etc. All grocers sell Kellogg's Bran.

Worn by You Alone

The satisfaction derived from wearing a beautiful piece of jewelry is uniquely enhanced by the knowledge that it is the only one of its design in existence.

This distinction is available to you through the designing and manufacturing departments of Brock and Company—a service unequalled in the West for the execution of original designs in jeweled ornamentation.

During the months of August and September this store will close every Saturday at 12:30 p.m.

WOMEN PLEDGE MOORE VOTES

Enthusiasm High at Meeting of Feminine Voters

Strength of Candidate in Other Regions Told

Incumbent Senator Without Labor's Support

BY MYRA NYE

With Mrs. W. C. Poussette, State regent of the Daughters of the British Empire, serving as chairman of hospitality, there were present at the meeting of the Los Angeles Women's Moore-for-Senator Club yesterday many prominent women from all over the State, who spoke briefly, giving their reasons for supporting Charles C. Moore as candidate for the United States Senate.

Mrs. Henry Peyot of San Francisco, a member of the directorate of the State League of Women, vice-president of the Tularuc Association of the northern city, told of her acquaintance with Mr. Moore and a deepening friendship which had lasted through the years.

"To see Mr. Moore in his home with his children is evidence complete of a fine, upright, typical American," said Mrs. Peyot. "To know him in a business way as I also have known him is to realize his executive ability. Mr. Moore's friends in San Francisco are working together to elect him, happy that this type of man, unselfish and modest, may take the place of a man whose qualities are very different."

Mrs. Virginia Carroll of San Francisco, and New York related how she went to the Johnson meeting for women a week ago ready to accept him as her candidate. But she left the meeting, she declared, with her mind fully made up to vote for Mr. Moore and to work for his election.

HAVE MOORE SLOGAN
"Ten or More for Moore," is the slogan the women have adopted in San Francisco, each working to secure at least ten votes for Mr. Moore, said Mrs. E. T. Tut of the northern city, who has come to Los Angeles on business. "I was most reluctant to leave San Francisco," said Mrs. Tut, "for I wished to devote all my time as a volunteer worker at Moore-for-Senator headquarters. I have known Mr. Moore for twenty-five years and know him to be all that his most enthusiastic supporters claim for him."

Mrs. Estelle Pike, formerly of New Jersey, now of Maryland, said that her first vote would be for Mr. Moore and expressed the belief that in that suburb the people were at least 10 per cent for Mr. Moore and only a few of the other half being for Hiram Johnson.

Mrs. Julia Powell, an officer of a chapter of the D.A.R., said: "The other evening I went out to my precinct and in a very short time forty had signed for Mr. Moore. I met only five people who were for Senator Johnson. It is a matter to think that labor is for the incumbent," Mrs. Powell continued. "I have talked with many groups of both men and women and find that while they are busy and have not informed themselves as to the candidates they express a great dissatisfaction with Senator Johnson's record the six years he has been in the Senate."

CALLER HOODLUM
Mrs. Isabelle Cutting, raised a laugh when she said: "It is not kind to speak of the dead, but dead politically though Hiram Johnson is I must say this. I have known him for years. I lived in Sacramento when he was a youth and he was called the Sacramento hoodlum. Now he is a side-winder politician and nothing else. I want to vote for a man with statesmanlike qualities and I think we have such a one in Charles C. Moore."

Stating that 70 per cent of the vote in California is in rural districts, Mrs. Florence Collins Porter, presiding, said it was a source of gratification to hear the reports from the outlying districts. She introduced Mrs. Edna Wilson and Mrs. J. C. Needham, the latter president of the league at Maywood; Mrs. Margaret Rice of Alhambra; Mrs. Fred E. Gillwaters of San Gabriel; Mrs. Anna Fuller Russell of San Gabriel; and Mrs. H. E. Rose from one of the outlying precincts of the city, also Mrs. Dora Stearns of the Seventy-second Assembly District; Mrs. Mabel Cope and Lineman who reported a most excellent organization for precinct work in the city on election day; Mrs. G. E. Winn, Mrs. Mary E. McKund, and Mrs. C. E. Barnett of Culver City, all of whom reported some definite work accomplished to further the candidacy of Mr. Moore.

MOORE MEETINGS
Mrs. Mary Kreusler of 1123 West Florence street will receive at a precinct meeting in her lighted garages Friday evening at 8 p.m. There

When you order your pattern, we think it would pay you to enclose 10 cents extra to receive a copy of our SUMMER FASHION MAGAZINE which shows about 400 styles, including several pages of embroidery designs, and contains a seven-lesson course in dressmaking.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.
Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

FALSE MODESTY
Last week in my paper on constipation, I went into the causes and gave you some general directions for the cure. I told you that some years ago related that it was not unusual for them to have many patients who gave a history of having evacuations of the bowels but once a week and some times longer, and that apparently some of these patients were not discontented over their condition.

I cannot believe that a bowel movement so infrequent as that could be consummated without great agony and tearing of the anal tissues. This straining and distension would also produce hemorrhoids and fissures. When there is no bowel movement for some time there is a packing of the feces until they form a rounded mass sometimes as large as a child's head. Intestinal specialists of today not infrequently have such cases.

I had one such case in my hospital agency. The patient was so hard and of such an amount that it had to be broken up and delivered piecemeal, and the woman, contrary to the general idea, are not composed wholly of the residue of food. They consist of the excretion of the mucous membrane of the small intestine of the body refuse itself, and perhaps 50 per cent are bacteria which normally inhabit the intestinal tract.

Occasionally constipation is of the obstructive type and is due to constriction of some of the valves or the sphincter muscles of the anal canal. An operation of cutting the valves or the sphincter, or dilating the canal is done by the rectal specialists.

will be community singing and speaking. The new campaign song for Mr. Moore will be sung for the first time in that part of the city.

Mrs. W. W. Naeve will preside at a Moore-for-Senator meeting to-night in the Chamber of Commerce Building, South Pasadena.

There will be a precinct meeting at the home of Mrs. A. T. Stewart, 117 Westmaster avenue, tomorrow at 3:30 p.m. Mrs. Virginia H. Carroll will be one of the speakers.

Mrs. E. J. Stillman will entertain at her home, 1537 East Seventeenth street, at 3 p.m. Thursday. Commemorative dinner will be given by Mrs. Mary DeMund and Mrs. Rita Kissen. They will talk on "Why I am for Moore for Senator."

Mrs. Kliesen was one of Senator Johnson's supporters, until two weeks ago when she was convinced he was not the man for the Senate.

Wednesday, the 16th inst., the Hollywood Women's Moore-for-Senator League, will have a rally in the Hollywood Women's clubhouse, 219 p.m. This meeting will be open for men and women both. Mrs. H. T. Wright, is president of the league and she presided on making this one of the most interesting meetings of the campaign.

He declares the spoken words of defendant were malicious, false and defamatory."

SOCIETY

BY VIRGINIA WOODS

Mrs. Brunswig is Hostess
Mrs. Houghton Metcalf of Providence, who is visiting her mother, Mrs. Wesley Clark at the Darby Hotel, was honor guest at a tea given by her sister Mrs. Walter Brunswig at her home at 1066 South Wilton Place. There were a hundred guests.

A number of courtesies are being planned for Mrs. Metcalf who will be in the city for six weeks.

Mrs. Rodman Entertained
Mrs. Willoughby Rodman and Miss Loren Barton received over 500 guests in the garden of Miss Loren's home, 956 South Wilton Place, yesterday afternoon.

The occasion was to bid farewell to Mrs. Rodman who, with Mr. Rodman, is to sail for Europe on the 15th inst.

About the lawn were several tables from which refreshments were served and which were decorated with mixed flowers.

Miss Barton's studio was thrown open to exhibit a life size portrait which she has painted of Mrs. Rodman.

Mrs. Pablo de la Arana is giving a tea today for Mrs. Rodman at her home in West Twenty-first street.

To Sail for Alaska
Miss Eleanor Cole and her cousin, Miss Olive Waring, left last night for Seattle, from where they will sail for Alaska. They will stop at Skagway and from there will make several inland trips.

Miss Cole is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cole of El Centro avenue and Miss Waring is the daughter of Mrs. Howard Scott Waring. Both are grand-daughters of former Senator Cornelius Cole.

On their return they will be met in Seattle by Mrs. Waring and the party will motor down to Los Angeles arriving here late in September.

Visit Canadian Rockies
Miss Katherine Torrance and her brother, Lewis Torrance, Jr., are enjoying an outing in the Canadian Rockies and points of interest along the coast. They will go to Victoria, Lake Louise and some of the popular resorts in Alberta.

Miss Torrance and her brother left last Saturday and are expected to be gone a month.

Give Dinner Party
Miss Marian Brackenridge and her sister, Miss Margaret Brackenridge, entertained with a dinner party Monday evening at their parents' home in Pasadena in honor of Miss Florence McGarry and John Miller Barns, to whom Miss McGarry is betrothed.

Guests were used for table decorations and there were places for twelve. Later the party motored over to the dance given by Dr. and Mrs. Ernest A. Bryant at their home in West Adams street.

Summering at Beverly
Mrs. Cady L. Daniels and her children, Albert and Junior of Kansas City who have been spending the summer at the Beverly Hills Hotel, as guests of Mr. and Mrs. William West, were joined by Mr. Daniels who came on from Kansas City.

To Wed in September
The wedding of Mrs. Lucille Helman Frank and Leonard J. Mayberry which is to occur next month is of wide social interest. Mrs. Frank is the daughter of Mrs. Maurice H. Helman and a number of pre-nuptial courtesies are being arranged for her.

Announce Marriage
Doctor Holiday Stromberger and Miss Jessie Thatcher Robertson announce their marriage on July 19th in this city. They are now at home at 4523 West Sixteenth street.

At Sacred Heart Church
An impressive morning wedding which occurred yesterday was the marriage of Miss Kathleen Dorothy Rounthwaite, daughter of Mr. Kate Rounthwaite and Jules Marshall Le Sage, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Henry Le Sage who are members of a prominent old French family here. The wedding took place in the Sacred Heart Church where the parents of the groom were also married in 1897.

A gown of beaded white georgette and a veil of silk net arranged high in the back was worn by the bride and she carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Bernadette Le Sage, sister of the groom attended the bride and wore a chiffon taffeta frock of delicate pink and mint picture hat.

The best man was Al Meemer, a cousin of the groom. Mr. and Mrs. Le Sage will tour the State by automobile returning later to the city to reside.

POLICEMAN FACES EXTORTION CHARGE

SAYS HE FREED PRISONERS FOR SAKE OF THEIR FAMILIES

Mack Berensweig, a special city policeman, who was accused of bribery and extortion in an indictment returned by the county grand jury on Monday, appeared in Judge Reeve's court yesterday and provided bail of $1000. On motion of Frank Dominguez, defense attorney, bail was reduced from $5000 to $1000.

The indictment charges that on July 26, last, the defendant caused the incarceration in the City Jail on charges of vagrancy of A. E. and William Becker, and that he received $100 from each of them. It was charged the two were later released.

Berensweig denies the charge and says he released the two because of their families.

SUES FOR DAMAGES FOR FALSE ARREST

Declaring that he had been arrested in Hyde Park, May 18, last, thrown into an automobile, his arms twisted, and later he was imprisoned for four days, J. D. Cunningham demanded $4035 damages. He charges that last July the defendant in the presence of others stated: "This man is a crook. He robbed my member of a lot of money. In addition to practicing law, Mr. Johnson is a real estate broker. He declares the spoken words of defendant were malicious, false and defamatory."

A FAMILY AFFAIR

The entire Talmadge family had a hand in making "The Primitive Lover." Constance Talmadge's latest leading woman, which she took to the Klumha Theater next Sunday, following the run of Anita Stewart in "The Woman He Married." Constance herself created one of the charming scenes that she wears in the picture, while her sister Natalie, now Mrs. Buster Keaton, created an evening gown of striking beauty that comes out in the later scenes. Mrs. Talmadge gave the inspiration to both in wagering that neither of them could design a gown that would be suitable for several appearances, and she is immensely proud of the fact that she lost her wager. Norma Talmadge's part in the picture consisted of lending Constance leading man's clothes, and she who played in "Smilin' Through."
